

Research Participants Wanted

I am looking for participants for my research investigating the effects of Pagan health and well being spells.

The study involves coming to the University every Wednesday for four weeks:

26th November

3rd December

10th December

17th December

During that time there will be a meditation session and a health and well being questionnaire to fill in. Please note that you need to be able to attend all four sessions and not have any debilitating conditions.

At some point during the trial, participants will have spells cast for them with the aim to improve health and well-being (nothing negative!).

For more detailed information on or if you have specific questions you can email charmainemarie.sonnex@northampton.ac.uk.

I will be running more trials through out the academic year. Please feel free to pass on the details to anyone else who you think may be interested.
