

Dr Paul Jackson and Dr Nicola Cooper are pleased to present the University of Northampton's annual Holocaust Memorial Day event opened by the Mayor of Northampton and featuring a keynote talk by:

Professor Tom Lawson (Northumbria University)

.....
Discussing 'Britain, Genocide and the Holocaust.'

Friday 22 January – 1pm
Sunley Conference Centre, Park Campus

At 12.30 the Multi-Faith Chaplaincy Team will convene a stone laying ceremony at the Anne Frank/Stephen Lawrence Memorial Tree.

Tom Lawson is Professor of Modern History at Northumbria University. He has published two books concerned with the history of the Holocaust, The Church of England and the Holocaust and Debates on the Holocaust. He is also joint editor of the interdisciplinary journal Holocaust Studies: A Journal of Culture and History and has published three edited collections too. His most recent book was The Last Man: A British Genocide in Tasmania and he is now working on a more general study of Britain and genocide.

Professor Lawson's keynote lecture will be followed by further talks and activities, including a student presentation on contemporary fascism in Britain.

To find out more, please contact Paul Jackson Paul.Jackson@northampton.ac.uk